How can so many be undernourished and overburdened?
Callahan Memorial Award: The Case Western Reserve University School of Dental Medicine and The Ohio State University College of Dentistry

By Jackie Best
Managing Editor

The Case Western Reserve School of Dental Medicine and The Ohio State University College of Dentistry have made significant contributions to dentistry throughout their histories. For their contributions, they will receive the Callahan Memorial Award on Friday, Sept. 16, at the ODA’s 150th Anniversary Gala and Award Celebration, held in conjunction with the 150th ODA Annual Session.

“As the ODA celebrates its 150th anniversary, the Callahan Memorial Award Commission wanted to join in the celebration by honoring both Ohio dental schools with the Callahan Memorial Award,” said Dr. Joe Mellion, chairman of the Callahan Memorial Award Commission. “Both schools embody what the Callahan Memorial Award is about – providing profound and impacting contributions to the art and science of dentistry, and their hard work, dedication and genius have inspired future generations.”

Case Western Reserve University School of Dental Medicine

CWRU School of Dental Medicine graduates have made contributions to education, research and public health, and for its contributions the school will receive the 2016 Callahan Memorial Award.

“I am extremely pleased the Case Western Reserve University School of Dental Medicine is receiving this outstanding international award along with our colleagues from The Ohio State University College of Dentistry,” said CWRU School of Dental Medicine Dean Kenneth Chance. “At Case Western Reserve University, we pride ourselves on being innovators in education and to be recognized for what we consider our mission is truly an honor. The honor belongs to the students, faculty and staff of our institution and to those alumni who represent us so well.”

Dr. Wendell Postle served as dean of The Ohio State University College of Dentistry from 1939 until 1965.
“Dental and optometry services are expected to be offered in 2017.”
Patrick is the dean of the College of Dentistry at the Ohio State University in Columbus.
